Humboldt Area Foundation Celebrates 100 Years of Community Foundations

“When a person plants a tree under which she will never sit, then you know civilization has come to that land.”

— Greek proverb

When the Cleveland Foundation was formed by Frederick H. Goff in 1914, philanthropic foundations moved from those founded on the generosity of one family to a new model supported by an ever expanding group of individuals who care deeply about the future of their community. The vision was to pool contributions and allow for people of more modest means to leave a charitable legacy and support their community in perpetuity.

Humboldt Area Foundation joined this esteemed group in 1972, when Humboldt native, Vera Vietor, inspired by the San Francisco Community Foundation, established Humboldt Area Foundation with a gift of $2.4 million, her Bayside home, and 14-acre estate.

Reflecting the deep generosity of North Coast residents, more than 1,000 individuals have since created charitable funds, providing assets which surpassed $106 million this year. From those funds, we have given out more than $67 million in grants and scholarships.

Thanks to the generous people of Humboldt, Del Norte, Curry and Trinity Counties, Humboldt Area Foundation continues to provide ways in which individuals and families can support and care for our communities now and in perpetuity.

Letter from the Executive Director

The greatest benefit of working at Humboldt Area Foundation is seeing people who are making a difference in our communities. I am inspired by the donors who give to the causes they believe in, the nonprofit organizations that stand up for those in need, the leaders who bring people together and the dedicated staff here at the Foundation. We are blessed to live among these generous hearts who recognize that they can help change lives when we work together.

At the same time, we are confronted daily by the harsh realities in our communities: poverty, lack of opportunity, the hurdles of raising a family or caring for those who are ill. We see the scourge of addiction and the tragedy of homelessness. There are many challenges in front of us and sometimes they can appear overwhelming. However, I have always been a believer in progress, that people coming together can improve lives, even if sometimes it is just one person at a time. Progress does not come quickly. Often it takes many tiny steps, and the path is rarely linear.

The beauty of a community foundation is that it is structured to take the long view while being able to have an impact today. As I reflect on the 100 years of community foundations and the progress that has been made in the world since 1914, I am confident that our communities will be healthier and more secure when Humboldt Area Foundation celebrates its centennial.

A quote by Akaya Windwood, the president of the Rockwood Leadership Institute, inspired me: "To be optimistic is in no way foolish. To be optimistic is to be wise. It's our only way forward."

I remain firmly an optimist, and that optimism is reinforced daily by all of you. Thank you for believing in a brighter future and making a difference today.

More than $1.25 Million for the Renovation of the Arcata and McKinleyville Firehouses

As our local fire departments prepare for the unexpected, Humboldt Area Foundation also maintains reserves to respond to community needs as they arise. Through the Orvamae Emmerson Fund and the Grantmakers Fund, Humboldt Area Foundation granted more than $1.25 million in 2014 for the renovation of the Arcata and McKinleyville firehouses.

There are several computer towers and monitors on the desk, and headphones are hanging from some of the towers.

Broadband for the Rural Areas

Twenty years ago, few people could have foreseen the widespread need for high speed internet.

Today, access to broadband has become a critical educational tool, a business necessity, as well as a means to protect and attract jobs. Humboldt Area Foundation utilized unrestricted funds to create Redwood Coast Connect, bringing community leaders together to increase high speed internet access, which continues to expand to more residents in rural areas every year.

Marcelina
Loleta Organizing Committee

Working together transforms the way our communities solve problems. The Leadership Fund provides support for initiatives that cultivate leadership skills in a diversity of residents and organizations. The focus is on efforts to make large-scale changes which benefit many people and bring folks together to work collectively. One such initiative is the True North Organizing Network, giving the people closest to the issues the tools to make the changes that matter most to them. The issues facing our communities change over time, as does the focus of initiatives supported by the Leadership Fund.

Humboldt Area Foundation Community Funds

Local Investment Fund

The Local Investment Fund offers the opportunity to make innovative investments in worthwhile projects, putting capital to work locally and building a stronger future for our community. This fund allows for additional funding above the $2.5 million allocated for local financing from the Foundation's investment portfolio.

Supporting Community Health

In 2011, Humboldt Area Foundation made a loan to support the building of the Open Door Community Health Center in Eureka.

The 27,400 square foot Eureka facility began serving patients in December 2012, and now provides primary medical health care to more than 12,000 individuals – nearly double the previous number served.

By the ribbon cutting in April 2013, the loan had already been repaid in full, with interest.

You can participate in investments in a strong North Coast infrastructure by giving to the Local Investment Fund through your own fund or by direct contributions.

Humboldt Area Foundation Community Funds

Scholars Fund

The Scholars Fund is designed to provide financial support for students who are pursuing their dreams of higher education and have unmet financial needs to do so. Research has shown that increased post-secondary education is a key to a healthy economy, with entrepreneurs and inventors being the largest drivers of economic growth. Through the Scholars Fund, we will provide a brighter future for our children and our region.

College graduates earn 84% more than those without a college degree.

The average annual cost of college tuition is $13,721.

82.3% of students receive some form of financial aid for their education.

Access to Higher Education is the Key to Healthy Communities

Acts of generosity can come back to us in so many ways. In 1986, Marian Ledgerwood established the John L. & Marian Ledgerwood Memorial Fund, a nursing scholarship fund in memory of her husband.

John had been extremely grateful for St. Joseph's excellent nursing staff during his long and final illness. In 2001, when Marian found herself hospitalized, she awoke to look into the eyes of one of her scholarship recipients, Lacey Comer. Lacey had graduated from nursing school with the help of the gift of Marian's scholarship. In turn, Marian received the gift of Lacey's care.

Native Cultures Fund

With the goal of fostering individual and community health and well-being, the Native Cultures Fund supports the revitalization of Native American arts and cultural transmission between generations in 50 California counties.

River As Home

In 2013, the Native Cultures Fund presented the River As Home exhibit, which filled the Morris Graves Museum of Art with works by 92 artists from the Wiyot, Tsenungwe, Hupa, Yurok, Karuk, and Tolowa people.

River As Home broke museum attendance records surpassing 6,000 visitors.

This exhibit was the first of its kind in scope and depth. The design of this exhibition followed the physical structure and spiritual values of traditional ceremonies of this place. With ninety-two artists on three floors of the entire museum, it was the largest fine art exhibition of living Northern California Native American artists to be shown north of Sacramento.

Spark of inspiration

Vera Viotor's vision to establish Humboldt Area Foundation in 1972 has provided a spark of inspiration to more than 1,000 North Coast community members who created their own funds to enrich the quality of education, health, the arts, the environment, animal welfare and other causes in our region. The following pages tell hundreds of tales of the vision and values of community members and the creative solutions sparked by their generous contributions.

Summer Youth Mini-Grants Supporting Youth Art Programs And More

Our mission at The Multi-Generational Center (MGC) is to provide programs for the Eel River Valley. However many children from the Rio Dell/Scotia area do not have the means to make it to our center in Fortuna. We wrote the Summer Youth mini-grant specifically to reach out to those children and families south of Fortuna.

Three times this summer, our Art Coordinator provided art programs at the park in Rio Dell. We met the kids right after the free lunch program to offer activities such as landscape painting, lollipop art and rock painting. Families created art together and everyone who participated had an art project to take home.

The program has acted as a springboard for additional collaboration between The MGC and the Rio Dell community. It has given us the opportunity to connect with Rio Dell Elementary School to discuss future opportunities for collaboration during the school year.

The grant made it possible for the Rio Dell and Scotia youth to experience something fun and educational during the summer.

Greg and Jennylee Nesbitt, natives of Oregon, returned to the northwest after 20 years in Louisiana where Greg ran an investor-owned electric utility, chaired the Rapides Foundation and led the Louisiana Learn State Commission in creating a K-12 Education Plan.

Previously, the Nesbitts spent 20 years in San Diego where they reared their three children Denise, Staci and Greg. Jennylee is an active volunteer, investing 5 years of her time establishing a Hospice program, a decade procuring food for a food bank in San Diego, and another 10 years developing a shelter for battered women in Louisiana. The Nesbitts learned early about philanthropy and have made it a lifetime habit. Greg said, "It's important to save money and to give some of it back to the communities in which we live." Greg currently serves on the HAF board of directors. The Nesbitts established this advised, expendable fund to support a variety of charitable causes here on the North Coast. (2002) C

$40,500

Nick's Interns Fund

$174,568

improvements to parklands, forests, slopes and streams. They take deserved pride in their accomplishments and team abilities, gaining self-esteem. Cooperating agencies provide in-kind supervision, administration, insurance, etc. Money donated to Nick's Interns goes to wages and payroll expenses of the workers themselves. North Coast Cultural Trust

$6,139

North Coast Cultural Trust's (NCCT) goal is to support broader public participation in and stability for the already thriving North Coast arts and humanities. NCCT is truly a collaboration among North Coast donors, artists, cultural organizations and community groups. To date, nearly a million dollars has been committed to the Trust by local

A strong arts community is very subtle in shaping people's lives and a community. It enables us to see the world and ourselves in a deeper and broader perspective," comments Yarber. (1998) A

North Coast Environmental History Resource Recovery & Preservation Fund

From the 1990s through 2004, hundreds of Northwest California citizens protested destructive logging practices and urged regulatory agencies to promote more sustainable forest management policies. Several activists video-documented the controversial logging practices, the resultant protest activities, the evidence gathering efforts, and the testimony given at hearings. Now this video work, both the original and edited footage, is the subject of great concern due to damage from mold and the deterioration of the original tapes. The North Coast Environmental History Resource Recovery and Preservation Fund was created to raise funds for the digitization of more than 700 videotapes in the Humboldt Watershed Council Video Collection. The vision for the North Coast Environmental History Resource Recovery and Preservation Fund extends beyond the immediate need of the Humboldt Watershed Council Video Collection and will enable future preservation efforts for materials that tell the region's important, but too often neglected, environmental history. They worked in the garden and cooked meals for the sisters, set up a little first aid clinic and provided blood pressure check-ups, exchanged books and created close friendships that are still treasured today, years after Ros's death in the year 2000. As the last remaining member of this family, Reverend Kenneth B. Samuelson established this fund to honor his grandparents Bendix and Anna Schnoor and parents John and Harriet Samuelson. In 1877, his grandparents emigrated from the North Frisian Islands to Petaluma when they were both 16 and worked on a farm. After being married in 1884, they traveled to Petrolia by steamer up the Eel and Salt Rivers. Anna gave birth to Reverend Samuelson's mother Harriet in 1885. She married Johannes Herman Samuelson, known as John, who also emigrated from the North Frisian Islands at age 16 in 1901. He worked as a dairyman and later the foreman of a road maintenance crew. Father Ken attended Fortuna High and graduated from HSU in 1938. He loved music, served in WWII and devoted 50 years of his life to the Episcopal Church. Gail Saunders' Youth & Community Fund N

Caring for children is a core value for Gail Saunders. In 1991, she became a foster parent and ultimately adopted her first two foster children. She has seen firsthand the degree of support these children need. Her children attended Trinidad School. From kindergarten to 8th grade she watched the school provide a caring and nurturing educational environment for her children with special learning needs. Additionally, she was touched by the work of CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates) and sees their work as a critical piece for any child in foster care.

Gail knows that with the right support at home, in school, and through CASA, a difference truly can be made in a child's life. This is why she has chosen to establish this fund to support the Trinidad School and CASA for their vital work for the benefit of the children in our community. (2013) C Y

Maeve Ryan Shanahan Memorial Fund $12,071

Maeve spent her life in the womb where she was loved and protected. She grew strong while listening to her brother Garrett's contagious laughter and the loving voices of her parents, Martha & Patrick. True to her namesake, Maeve fought against a pinched source of oxygen for many months unbeknownst to anyone to grow into a strong, healthy baby girl. Maeve passed two days before her due date, on April 9, 2011, in the warm embrace of her mother's womb. Maeve's fund was made possible due to the generous donations of loving family and friends and was established to support the education of youth at Saint Bernard's School, the school Maeve would have attended. Brian and Tim Smith Memorial Fund $9,834

Brian and Tim Smith were natives of Humboldt County who perished on the Trinity River at Madden Creek on July 22, 2006. Both gave their lives to save the life of Tim's young son, Asa. Brian ultimately pulled Asa most of the way to shore and then went back in an attempt to save his brother. As a result of Brian's heroic act he was awarded the Carnegie Hero Medal. Brian and Tim's mother, Linda Livasy with the support of Tim's wife Addie Segura, decided to use the award money to start this fund to support high school graduates who have suffered the loss of a parent. The Smith family recognizes how difficult it can be to raise children with one parent, especially supporting those children through college, and hope others will recognize the need to support single parent graduates and join in feeling that "we can't do it alone". "Davey" Somerville Revolving Travel Fund $4,522

Davey, age 10, the joy of his parents' life together, was a very bright child and liked by all who had contact with him. He especially liked playing with his friends and he enjoyed baseball, soccer, basketball, building Lego structures, and reading books of many kinds. He also enjoyed travels to many places, particularly to Hawaii. But his greatest delight was computers. Even in the hospital in San Francisco, when he had become very weak, he would spend a little time with a laptop computer. Davey suffered from a very rare cancer of the adrenal system. His family spent a lot of time going back and forth to San Francisco and felt they were fortunate that they could afford to do so. While there are family houses for families of severely ill children, often the travel costs are a big burden on the families. This fund is to help defray some of the cost of travel for these families. (1999) H Y

Today's Mid Klamath Watershed Council's Youth Education Participants are Tomorrow's Fisheries Biologists

Participating in the Mid Klamath Watershed Council's (MKWC) numerous youth activities can lead to valuable job skills and meaningful employment.

On MKWC Youth Restoration Raft Trips local youth learn about their watershed by snorkeling the river to identify juvenile salmon, and improving the fish passage at the creek mouth for migrating juvenile salmon. They also learn from special presenters such as Toz Soto, Fisheries Biologist for the Karuk Tribe.

The MKWC's Teenage Stewardship Intern Crew works on fisheries restoration projects, invasive weed removal, and community gardening.

Currently six former participants in MKWC's youth programs are now employees for the organization during their breaks from college and military service. They all participated in MKWC's youth camps, raft trips, school field trips, and eventually MKWC's Stewardship Intern Summer Job Program. Now they are fully trained and engaged in ecological restoration work in their watershed.

“Stewardship is the act of taking a role in helping support the natural environment we live in. My internship with MKWC has definitely inspired me to be a more active steward of my community.”

Trinity Trust Summer Youth Mini-Grants Support Environmental Education and Stewardship in Hyampom

In partnership with the Forest Service, fisheries biologists set up a salmon life cycle obstacle course that simulated the salmon run at Indian Valley Summer Camp. At various sections of the course, campers did physical challenges, such as jumping over "weirs" and dodging "predators" played by counselors. Campers loved the action-filled activity, and got a sense of how difficult it is for salmon to complete their life cycle.

Volunteers from the Watershed Center helped campers identify invasive species of plants, such as knapp weed, in order to remove them. Campers learned the importance of restoring natural areas in order to encourage native plant growth, which benefits the ecosystem as a whole. The project also gave campers an opportunity to participate in community service and stewardship of the environment, two key elements of the Indian Valley Summer Camp Program.

Mountain Valley Youth Fund Endowment

$ 101,474

The Mountain Valley Youth Endowment Fund was created in 1999 through two major gifts. An anonymous donor visited Hayfork and impressed by the urgency of the need and the efficiency of the already-established Mountain Valley Youth Fund, gave the first gift to create this endowment. Marion and Victor Payse, Barbara Stokely's sister and brother-in-law, donated a matching gift of $5,000. The idea of an endowment to ensure funds in perpetuity for needy children in the area appealed to the Payses. They are both retired educators who over the years have contributed not only money but also their time, energies and talents to enhance the community where they live. Although they have no children of their own, they decided to help the children of Hayfork, knowing that the need was great. A significant anonymous contribution was made by a local resident. Union Labor Health Foundation (ULHF)

$5,427,493

The mission of ULHF, a supporting organization of Humboldt Area Foundation, is to improve the health and well-being of the residents and communities of Humboldt County. The original Union Labor Hospital, later known as The General Hospital, was established in Eureka in 1906 as a charitable nonprofit organization, by newly unionized timber and mill workers. Union Labor Health Foundation

Union Labor Health Foundation partners with Humboldt Area Foundation to improve the health and well-being of the residents and communities of Humboldt County.

In Humboldt County in the 1900s, workers who were injured on the job found the costs of care at local private hospitals financially devastating. By 1906, the newly unionized timber and mill workers of Eureka decided to start a hospital of their own and opened General Hospital, a charitable, nonprofit organization in 1908.

In 1997, the Union Labor Hospital Association sold the hospital and established the Union Labor Health Foundation, which has since awarded $3.37 million to support community health efforts through organizational grants, funding partnerships, nursing scholarships, and assistance to individuals for health and dental care.

Angel Fund

590 grants awarded for a total of $95,200

Union Labor Health Foundation's Angel Fund provides fast financial assistance to Humboldt County's low-income families for immediate health and medical needs.

Over the last year, the Angel Fund assisted 227 children and adults with small grants for eyeglasses. These grants make a big difference for many individuals whose limited personal resources make it challenging to cover this essential item that can help improve quality of life. By working with various service agencies, ULHF can ensure that the Angel Fund is serving those with the most need.

Excerpt from a thank you card from Humboldt Senior Resource Center:

Thank you very much for all the help you have given the frail, low-income elders in our managed care program. The Angel Fund is where our care managers turn when there are no other resources for health-related items their clients really need. An individual pair of eye glasses may seem like a small thing, but the gift of better sight can make a huge difference to the person wearing them. With these gifts, you are helping seniors remain independent in their homes with health, dignity, and a higher quality of life.

Community Health Grantee Highlights

Supporting Health and Wellness of the Next Generation

In the last year Union Labor Health Foundation contributed to a number of programs that are making deep impacts in the lives of local youth.

Counseling for Youth in Southern Humboldt

With support from ULHF, Redwoods Rural Health Center was able to assist students at Redway Elementary and South Fork High School to access support for emotional and behavioral challenges in their lives through individual counseling and support groups. This assisted students to focus more in school and helped many youth change behaviors to avoid suspension and expulsion.

Mentors for Success

Through a ULHF grant, 40 youth at the Boys and Girls Club of the Redwoods were able to team up with mentors for help with homework, community service and physical activity. Strong mentors provide the support youth need to make healthy choices, develop safe and healthy relationships, and feel empowered to make a difference in their communities.

"Youth truly benefitted from our one-on-one mentoring. In talking with our members, we learned that they have a desire to participate in structured programming and have a safe place to hang out on the weekend to curb their boredom."

Boys and Girls Club of the Redwoods staff

A Safety Net for Children in Crisis

More than 75 children going through the court and foster care system receive support from Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASAs). CASAs listen to the needs of children they work with and advocate on their behalf in court and in schools to help them transition from very challenging situations into environments where they feel safe, loved, and cared for. ULHF made a grant to support CASA of Humboldt in providing such valuable services to children in our community.

The Children's Dental Angel Fund

The Children's Dental Angel Fund was created in 2001 to meet dental needs of youth in Humboldt County. Low-income families can receive assistance for a child's critical dental treatment from this local funding source. Last year the Fund helped approximately 30 youth ages 2-19 years old with dental care ranging from a single filling to major oral surgery.

The Angel Fund – Free Wheeling

A thirteen-year-old boy diagnosed with Cerebral Palsy really wanted to be able to ride bikes with his older sister but had a hard time doing so because of his limited range of motion. With help from the Angel Fund, the boy's family was able to get an adaptive tricycle that will last into adulthood. Now this young man is not only building up his lower leg strength, but is also experiencing increased independence and participation.

Dean Cantwell Memorial Scholarship Fund N

Dean Cantwell grew up in Iowa and moved to Crescent City in 1992 to retire from a career as a contractor, building major subdivisions in the Monterey and Santa Cruz area during the housing development boom. After spending years working in relatively affluent communities as a laborer, albeit a successful one, Dean developed a passion for helping young people improve themselves through education. Dean began contributing each year to Rotary's annual Third Grade Dictionary Program whereby each third grader in Del Norte County is given their own dictionary, and through Rotary's annual award of scholarship monies to deserving high school students. As the years passed, Dean developed a dream to create a four-year scholarship award to one deserving young person from Del Norte. Dean Cantwell Memorial Scholarship Fund

A Life Savings Changes a Life

Nearing the end of his life, Crescent City resident, Dean Cantwell decided to use his life's savings to help change someone's life for the better. Almost a year to the day after his death, Dean did just that.

On June 4, 2014, Del Norte High School student, Margarita Rios sat with her classmates awaiting the results of their scholarship applications. These results often determine how, where and even if one goes to college. To her surprise, Margarita was awarded the Dean Cantwell Memorial Scholarship. "I was speechless when I heard my name. I never thought that I would receive such an amazing opportunity," said Rios. "I wanted to cry, but I was just too shocked."

The Dean Cantwell Memorial Scholarship is a one-time, four-year award, which offers $25,000 per year for the first three years of college, with the fourth year of the award being the remainder of the initial money that established the fund.

The idea for this award came after Dean retired from a successful career as a contractor and moved to Crescent City in 1992. His passion for helping young people was fostered by participation in Del Norte Sunrise Rotary's Scholarship and Third Grade Dictionary Programs. Eventually, Dean decided to create a four-year scholarship award to transform the life of one extraordinary young person from Del Norte County.

That person is Margarita Rios, who will study nursing at Sonoma State University. "My parents didn't graduate from high school, but I knew that I would go to college," stated Rios. "You better keep your grades up. I better see no C's on that report card, and stay away from those boys! If I had a dollar for every time I heard this from my mom, I would have more than enough money for college tuition."

Margarita Rios and Lise Hamilton at the 2014 Del Norte Scholarship Awards Night.

Establishing a memorial scholarship fund can be healing during the grieving process. "In the last year, we went from coming to terms with Dean's death, to working to make the scholarship happen, to giving Margarita the award," said Del Norte Sunrise Rotary member, Lise Hamilton. "It is the end of this process for us but the beginning of a new life for Margarita."

"If I could speak to Dean Cantwell, I would tell him how he has truly changed my life," said Margarita. "It's an amazing thing to help shape a person's life."

The Children's Hospital Dentistry Program in Del Norte County was initiated in 2000 with financial support from the Del Norte Healthcare District Board. The program serves low-income children in Del

Norte County (and an occasional disabled adult) who suffer from severe dental conditions requiring in-hospital dentistry under anesthesia and who are too young to tolerate such extensive dentistry under local anesthesia. The Children's Hospital Dentistry Program was developed by local health care professionals, who in the late 1990s, identified an overwhelming unmet need for specialized children's dentistry. Practitioners had become keenly aware that low-income children with multiple dental problems did not have access to treatment under general anesthesia and children who needed specialty care had to travel to Redding or the Bay Area for treatment. Where We Have Come From ... Where We Are Going!

Supporting leadership to take bold steps together to help neighborhoods, nonprofits, governments and the business community thrive has been the work of Humboldt Area Foundation's Community Strategies Department since it evolved from the Institute of the North Coast in the late 1990s.

In 1994 the Foundation opened the Rooney Resource Center to provide valuable information and resources to nonprofit managers and grant-seekers. The Center continues to help many organizations improve their effectiveness today.

To improve the leadership skills of business and nonprofit managers, the Cascadia Center for Leadership Training was formed in 2000. Each year two-dozen community leaders hone their skills in building engaged and effective teamwork, while creating a more bonded support network of community leaders.

Since 2002, the Native Cultures Fund has been based at Humboldt Area Foundation to support indigenous culture-bearers throughout California in their rebuilding of traditional practices and language, with the goal of fostering healing and wellness.

In 2004, Humboldt Area Foundation dedicated resources and staff to building the capacity of our nonprofit community, which is often stretched thin with limited staff and little time or money for professional development. The Foundation created NorCAN (Northern California Association of Nonprofits) to offer monthly roundtable discussions, networking opportunities and low-cost workshops.

Our 2011 listening campaigns told Foundation staff that people desperately wanted better ways to productively engage in local decision-making. By 2012, we had received a grant from The California Endowment's Building Health Communities initiative in Del Norte and Tribal Lands to incubate the True North Organizing Network to provide civic engagement training and develop problem-solving skills with populations that have not traditionally been engaged in policy change in their communities.

As we look toward the future, we will continue to focus on transforming our communities' ability to solve problems, creating opportunities to realize community potential and supporting the nonprofit sector to be effective, strategic and collaborative.

Strengthening the ability of nonprofits to make deep impacts in our communities.

The work that nonprofits do is more effective if they implement best practices, have access to training, and connect with other organizations for support, problem solving, and collaboration.

Humboldt Area Foundation supports the development of smarter, more engaged organizations through the Northern California Association of Nonprofits (NorCAN) and the Rooney Resource Center.

NorCAN is a regional network of 140 nonprofits working to make our communities healthy and strong. Focused on the development of leaders and giving tools to nonprofits to make and implement smart business decisions, NorCAN provides trainings from local and national experts and networking opportunities that help nonprofits work together more effectively to create change. In the last year, NorCAN offered trainings on everything from quarterly webinars focused on effective use of technology to optimizing the effectiveness of nonprofit boards in governance, financial oversight and fundraising. Regular roundtable discussions for Board Members, Executive Directors and Fundraisers are also offered to both support and help people connect for greater problem solving power!

In the last year, NorCAN partnered with Humboldt State College of E-Learning and Extended Education to offer the first ever local certificate program in fundraising – New Designs for Fundraising.

2013 Nonprofit Leader of the Year

Each year, NorCAN presents the Nonprofit Leader Achievement Award to an outstanding person who has played transformational roles in the organizations they work with and has made significant impacts in the community. In 2013, the award was given to an incredible leadership duo – Herrmann Spetzler, CEO of Open Door Community Health Centers, and Cheyenne Spetzler, COO of Open Door Community Health Centers.

Unlocking the Potential of People and Place

NorCAN's 6th Strong as Redwoods Conference focused on unlocking the potential of people and place with sessions focused on how to develop networks for transformative community problem solving, strategic communications, board members for emergent times, and leading from the inside out.

Rooney Resource Center

Resource Center staff provide individual problem solving support, help to connect organizations, offer consultant referrals and help with nonprofit start up. As a Funding Information Network partner, the Center gives the community access to a comprehensive grants database and has a robust lending library to supply nonprofits with the tools and information they need for effective management, governance and leadership.

TRUE NORTH

Organizing Network

I believe that power rests in relationships. Durable and sustainable power is knowing other people. We don't teach this in schools or in our professional lives, even though I believe that we know it intuitively. If we want to make our neighborhoods better, our communities stronger, if we want to change the world, then we have to change ourselves. We have to become stronger and to reach out to others – people who may or may not like us – so that we can define our common ground.

If we want to make a better place for our children, then we should have the hard, honest, and authentic conversations with one another to ensure that we have done the very best that we can do for all living things. I think that community organizing and the True North Organizing Network can help teach us this method of respecting the religion of others, and of listening to the voices of people we know as well as those we don't, in order to learn how we can make a better place for all of us.

Terry Supahan
President, True North Organizing Network

On July 12, 2014, one hundred people from Humboldt and Del Norte Counties and Tribal lands – from Smith River to Orleans to Loleta – came together in Orick to talk about challenges facing the region and what they can do about them.

United by common values, families, elders, youth, and individuals of diverse faith traditions, races, cultures, and economic capacities are establishing the True North Organizing Network across Tribal Lands, Del Norte and Humboldt Counties. They are using a disciplined community organizing model based on shared values and building relationships, done with the belief that everyday people working together are able to courageously address the most pressing problems affecting our communities.

Orleans resident and Yurok Tribal Member Frankie Joe Meyers gets to know David Samuleson, District Superintendent of the United Methodist Church.

True North is supporting people to have one-to-one, face-to-face conversations to learn which issues are causing pain in our community and to what degree people are truly ready to work for change. From these conversations, issues that speak to common concerns and deepest hopes will be identified and selected as True North's regional platform.

True North is a member of the PICO National Network (People Improving Communities through Organizing), the largest community-based effort in the United States working to unite people to act across region, race, class and religion.

What Changes Are True North Leaders Making?

Community organizing committees in Crescent City and McKinleyville focus on safety.

In November 2013, 255 people gathered in McKinleyville to hear commitments from decision-makers about improving safety on Central Avenue.

McKinleyville Organizing Committee (MOC) members chose pedestrian and bicycle safety as their first issue to tackle. Quin Maynor (age ten) told an audience of 255 people in November, "I believe that if Central Avenue was made safer, more of my friends would ride their bikes to school. Right now, only 5 to 7 students ride their bikes." MOC research indicated that implementation of an $800,000 grant was in limbo due to lack of agreement on priorities between partner agencies. They met with decision-makers and negotiated solutions to the challenge. Public meetings have been held to engage a diversity of stakeholders and the process is moving forward and meeting deadlines!

Humboldt Organizer Renee Saucedo and young leader, Quin felt victorious about his testimony that night.

Student Alberto Gonzalez, Del Norte Lead Organizer Melissa Darnell, and student Mai Tao after their presentation to the Del Norte Board of Supervisors.

During a Crescent City listening campaign, Coastal Connections Youth Organizing Project (CCYOP) discovered that youth access to alcohol was of deep concern to many high school students. "We chose this issue because we are tired of seeing our friends taken to the hospital, or worse, who are no longer with us, because of alcohol abuse... We want to be taken seriously and we want decision-makers to take responsibility to make Crescent City a safe, healthy place," Alberto Gonzalez, now a Senior at Castle Rock Charter School, told the Del Norte County Supervisors at their July 22, 2014 meeting.

Mai Tao, Del Norte High School Junior, shared with the Supervisors what CCYOP research had revealed – that youth were obtaining alcohol primarily at local grocery stores.

A Crescent City grocery store manager agreed to make changes to the availability of alcohol in his store as requested by the CCYOP youth. He shared with the Board the measures put into place and reported success at reducing theft. The CCYOP youth received a standing ovation from the audience and the Board for their continuing efforts.

What does Humboldt Area Foundation have in common with the L.A. Times, the New York Times, the BBC, Heyday Books, and Al-Jazeera News? They all support the efforts of the Yurok people who continue to teach and learn the Yurok language. In the last year, each of these news organizations has traveled to Eureka and to the Yurok Tribe's reservation to feature the teachers and students involved in the Yurok language revitalization efforts. Humboldt Area Foundation used flexible funds to award a grant in partnership with the Yurok Tribe and the Eureka High School Johnson O'Malley Program to start the Yurok language classes at Eureka High School. This is now the largest district in California to have a Native language class.

Students in Native language classes from Del Norte, Eureka, Hoopa, and McKinleyville High Schools were able to attend and learn from other Native language teachers at the event.

A Legacy of Healing Through Cultural Revitalization

Amos Tripp

July 5, 1943 – April 10, 2014

Amos Tripp was a cultural leader, an artist and a mentor to an entire community. Not constrained by convention, he was a first-generation college graduate who became a respected lawyer specializing in Indian rights and sovereignty cases at one of the first Indian law firms in California. He made impactful contributions as the first director and longtime program attorney for United Indian Health Services, as a Karuk Tribal Council Member and on the Humboldt Area Foundation Board of Directors where he founded the Native Cultures Fund.

In honor of his memory, Humboldt Area Foundation has established the Amos Tripp Native Leadership Fund to support Native Leadership with a focus on health and wellness for the Native communities of Humboldt, Trinity and Del Norte Counties that he called home. The fund supports the development of new leaders and their reclaiming of cultural heritage, leading to healing and building pathways for future generations.

Amos' daughter and Humboldt Area Foundation Board member, Paula "Pimm" Allen explains, "The Amos Tripp Fund will support the philosophical side of cultural practice that helps to make us better stewards of the land, parents and people. Dad's philosophy was looking for answers to questions such as: What do you learn when you make a basket? What do you learn as you create art? He was seeking paths to get to the next way of thinking."

What do you learn when you make a basket? What do you learn as you create art?

Longtime friend, Frank Tuttle echoed Amos' quest for understanding, "Amos' motto was: 'How can I be a more enriched person from the things I've learned? How can I incorporate this understanding, integrate it into my being and act upon it?'"

One way that Amos acted upon his understanding was to integrate traditional cultural practices into a modern healthcare system at United Indian Health Services. "This created a broader wellness environment," explains family friend, Ruby Tuttle. "When the roots of who we are is being cared for as other aspects of our health are being treated, it not only heals a person's body, but also their soul and spirit."

Pimm notes the impact of Amos' approach, "He witnessed the direct result of true health and wellness in families and individuals who were reconnected with their cultural traditions. Reviving cultural traditions is a first step of healing historical trauma, but what really made such a difference was when people had the opportunity to expand their thinking and connections to culture. He believed in that to the core."

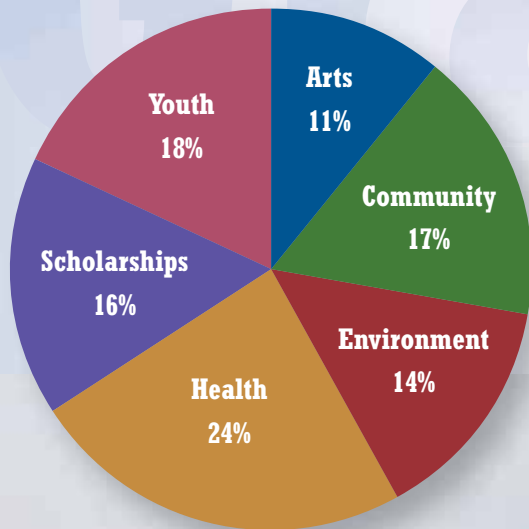

"Dad encouraged us to listen and act with our hearts, Pimm said. "We are often fulfilling a specific role or obligation assigned to us, but acting and thinking with heart and letting that be a part of the process is a big take away that so many got from Dad. We can be professional, successful, spiritual and do it all with heart. We're all searching for meaning. The earlier we can find some meaning in life, the more joy we have. Dad found that meaning and shared that joy."

Amos Tripp served on the Humboldt Area Foundation Board of Directors from 1997 through 2007. In 2000, he was instrumental in the establishment of the Native Cultures Fund.

In appreciation of the tremendous impact that Amos Tripp made on our work, Humboldt Area Foundation created the Amos Tripp Native Leadership Fund in his honor.

Summary of Grants for 2013 | 2014

Arts	$432,681
Community	$624,168
Environment	$520,871
Health	$907,267
Scholarships	$598,853
Youth	$685,430

TOTAL $3,769,270

The diversity of our donors is represented by the broad reach of the funds they have created. Every grant listed on these pages represents a story – one of how our area becomes increasingly strengthened through the people and projects that take place here every day.

Our aim is to be an effective vehicle for people to give back to our communities.

Accessing the knowledge of local experts, we engage community members in our grant decision making. They volunteer their time and energy to help the Foundation share resources with nonprofits serving important roles and making a difference in our area.

The impact of these grants cannot be wholly captured on paper. The impact appears as a story in each of our lives: the life-saving equipment in outlying areas, art exhibits you see around town, a place for the stray dog in the road and the hands-on environmental education provided to youth.

We hope that as you read through each grant given this year, you will consider the impressive breadth of support that helps our community help itself, and imagine each story held within.

Ride to the Wild Fund A Day At The Beach

As school budgets dwindle, field trips have become a rare occurrence. The cost of many field trips can exceed $1,000 for the bus trip alone.

Former educators, Melissa and Bill Zielinski, created the Ride to the Wild Fund to give children hands-on educational experiences with the preservation of natural places. This year, the Ride to the Wild Fund sent students from as far as Hoopa on field trips to such destinations as Redwood State and National Parks and a Madaket tour of Humboldt Bay.

Winship Middle School sixth-grade science teacher, Hart Danielle Ford recounts the day her class explored the biodiversity of the dunes habitat at the Friends of the Dunes Coastal Nature Center in Manila:

Students were amazed by the plants that we were able to find. With the help of our guides, we learned to identify several species, including goldenrod, beach daisy, and beach buckwheat.

Using a tracking guide, we identified jackrabbit and raccoon tracks. Signs of the nocturnal weasel are few and far between, so their tracks were the rare prize.

After all the hiking, students got a bit hungry. So we had a snack on the trail - thatch ants! The students told me (yes, the teacher was not so brave) that they tasted like sour patch kids. Like bears, they used sticks to fish a few ants from the nest and then gobbled them up!

The Beach Layia sparked a special interest for the students. This endangered species is quite petite so we kept a sharp eye out for the Layia to make sure that we were protecting it. One student gave the flower little sips from her water bottle during the hike.

As a teacher, I was impressed by how quickly students developed empathy for nature once they knew the plant's name and story. Because of the lasting impact of this trip, I am more committed than ever to making field trips a regular and integral part of my instruction.

In addition to their own contributions, the Zielinskis also write grants and encourage donations to the Ride to the Wild Fund to increase access to field trips for Humboldt County students.

A PLACE OF TRANSFORMATION IN TRANSFORMATION Boys and Girls Club Teen Center

The organization that works to lift young people up, support them and allow them to shine, is getting a lift as well.

"This building has great bones, but it needs some fat." That was a quote from a contractor who put in a bid of $1.3 million to renovate the former trolley barn that houses the Boys & Girls Club of the Redwoods' Teen Center, providing a home away from home for many of Eureka's youth.

That bid came in early 2013. By the fall, incoming Eureka Rotary President, Gregg Gardiner came to the Boys & Girls Club searching for a significant project for Rotary to support. Gregg left a bit discouraged after a tour of the run-down facility, but committed to floating the idea of supporting the renovation with his peers.

The idea was met with a lot of enthusiasm. Six of the local Rotary Clubs have made monetary commitments. Humboldt Area Foundation and other grant-making partners made grants to support the renovation project. More than forty businesses have signed on for cash and in-kind donations, including O&M Industries, which is replacing the heating system for the entire building.

Eureka McDonalds is donating kitchen equipment and Carboneau Tile is contributing flooring. Humboldt Builders Exchange adopted this as their project of the year, providing labor and services from their 300 members. Teen Challenge has also made it their annual project, providing labor and fundraising.

Due to the incredible show of support, the $1.3 million renovation estimate has been trimmed to $250,000. "I am forever amazed at the incredible generosity of this community," said Elizabeth Smith, Boys & Girls Club of the Redwoods' Executive Director. "We have worked very hard to not only maintain our operations, but also to be able to meet the growing needs of youth in our area. The level of support that we are receiving from our Rotary Clubs, community groups, businesses and foundations is nothing short of miraculous and incredibly encouraging that our mission is vital and worthy of investment."

From the basketball court to the game room, computer lab, recording studio, library and kitchen, the Teen Center houses a safe place for Eureka youth to learn and grow through empirically based programs that foster academic success, healthy lifestyles, good character and citizenship, mentoring opportunities and creative endeavors. With this renovation, Club staff are confident that more youth will find their way to the facility, where the center's quality programs can touch the lives of the youth that need them most.

One creative endeavor that is attracting teens is the slam poetry workshops. This ode to the Teen Center comes from the course instructor:

"A place where minds can conspire and build concepts with ease, to educate the masses with our musical genes.

*We have freedom of speech. That's the class we'll teach.
Taking selfies of our progress and the goals we've reached.*

Tay'lon Reed

Boys and Girls Club of the Redwoods' Teen Center Program Assistant

Paying It Forward

The Fishin' Lumberjacks

On a tuna fishing boat 300 miles south of San Diego, a group of Humboldt State University Fisheries Alumni, ("The Fishin' Lumberjacks") battled toothy predators, shared fish tales, and hatched a plan to honor their mutual mentor and friend, Dr. Terry Roelofs, Emeritus Professor of Fisheries Biology at Humboldt State University. Two years later, on that same boat plying the waters off the Baja Peninsula, the group made good on their plan by presenting Terry with an oversized check to establish the Roelofs Humboldt Fisheries Scholarship Fund.

"It felt very meaningful to start the fund and was really a no-brainer to do," said Fishin' Lumberjacks member, Sharon Kramer. "Most of the Fishin' Lumberjacks are fisheries professionals and former loyal students of Terry's who have done well and wanted to pay it forward. We all see how important our education was, and how important HSU was because of its strong Fisheries program. Terry has given a lot to students, friends and family and it is an honor to be able to create this scholarship in his name."

Fishin' Lumberjacks chartermaster, Craig Heberer, who originally broached the idea of a scholarship fund, uses skills taught by Roelofs every day in his job as a fisheries biologist for the National Marine Fisheries Service. "For me, Terry taught us a passion for the outdoors. His mentorship and teaching style wasn't all about metrics and numbers. He focused on the intangibles as well, such as people skills and the ability to articulate the beauty and grandeur of the places where we were working. It helped me to focus on all aspects of fisheries biology, not just the technical aspects. Skills Terry taught us, especially to work hard and play hard and love what you do, are on display every day at work."

It is no surprise that Roelofs' students are so dedicated to him. When asked about his reaction to the scholarship fund in his name, Roelofs' dedication to his students and his work comes through in every word, "Since I retired, I've really missed the students. The thrill of university teaching is the amazing interaction with so many young people who are eager to learn. If you stay in this business for a while, some of your best students become your teachers. It's an honor to play a role in a person's development when they are in their teens or early 20s."

Longtime friend and colleague of Terry Roelofs', Dr. David Hankin, a Professor in HSU's Department of Fisheries Biology noted, "These students created this scholarship in recognition of Terry and a program they enjoyed. Current HSU Fisheries faculty are working to make sure students have the same feelings about the program going forward."

HSU alumni and Fishin' Lumberjack, David Manning talks about the rewards of starting the fund, "There are a lot of pressures on our environment and those will continue to grow, so we will need very bright students who will think in innovative ways to help us manage natural resources on the North Coast of California in the future. Terry is an incredible mentor. Helping HSU continue to mentor students in the way Terry did and current faculty continue to do, will benefit the environment of the North Coast."

James P. Brantley Memorial Fund

Supporting the Coffee Creek Volunteer Fire District

Dear James P. Brantley Memorial Fund friends,

As last year, I sit here in Coffee Creek, mindful of how thoughtful you have been to honor your loved one by helping the Coffee Creek Volunteers in our work assisting others in their time of need. The intubation head which your fund purchased last year has already helped us save the lives of two individuals. I can't think of a more fitting tribute to James than that.

We received your current grant for a new Stokes Basket and equipment and can finally replace our old basket, overdue for retirement. As a non-taxing district, we are grateful for the support of our donors and truly appreciate your help. We, and the Trinity Center Fire Department, will use this new equipment to continue our mission of providing medical assistance to the residents of the North Lake Area. Training and responding together, we reinforce our skills and help bond together as a community. When we are called out, you ride with us.

The Fund is a significant support of the Coffee Creek Fire District's mission and we are proud of your confidence in our work.

Thank you for your thoughts and generosity.

Sincerely,

Coffee Creek Volunteer Fire District Board

Ernest and May Freeman Trust Fund

Humboldt Spay/Neuter Network

Jennifer Raymond, Director, Humboldt Spay/Neuter Network

“Having a pet at home is absolutely critical for some people, especially elders who have lost a life partner. Unfortunately, we get many calls from seniors who are considering euthanasia because they can't afford medical care for their animal.

We started Helping Hands for Seniors after we got a call from a woman who was devastated because she could not afford the treatment that would keep her cat alive. She told me, 'this cat is all I have,' and I realized that we had to help. We scraped together the money to help her and decided to seek funding to provide services for seniors on fixed incomes. I'm happy to say that her cat is alive and well today.

Having this funding allows us to provide a safety net for these people and their animals. To know that the Ernest and May Freeman Trust Fund will be here in perpetuity is very special and not common in other regions. It makes a huge impact here.

When I started this work in 2002, several thousand animals per year were being euthanized in Humboldt County. Today, less than 600 per year are being put down. This is mainly due to the fact that there aren't as many unwanted puppies and kittens being born and that is in large part because of the Ernest and May Freeman Trust Fund. In 2002, we survived on donations and grants. After the Ernest and May Freeman Trust Fund money became available in 2007, we went from spaying and neutering 700 to 800 animals a year to about 1,500 per year.

I never knew Ernest and May Freeman, but I thank them every day because they understood the key to solving the problem of the overpopulation of unwanted animals and they supported the solution.”

Ginger's Rescue

Ginger was confiscated from a pit bull fighting ring where she was to have been used for bait. Humboldt Spay/Neuter Network provided veterinary care, including spaying, and placed her in a foster home to regain her confidence. Once she was healed, physically and emotionally, she found a loving home as a companion for a disabled veteran.

There are many routes to reaching one's destination ... some people invent their own.

When Gildard Hess was 19 years old, he moved from Iowa to Oakland, California. Gil had only completed one quarter of college before taking a job as a welder for Key Systems and Industrial Service Co., a sheet metal manufacturing business. Eventually, Gil became the owner of Industrial Service Co. and built the business from a few people to more than 150 employees.

Married for 55 years, Gil and Ann Hess created great success in life as well as business. Among Gil Hess' innovative achievements is his patented design of the baggage carousel, which is still used today in airports around the world. After Gil retired in 1970, he and Ann moved to Del Norte County where they built their dream home at the mouth of the Smith River. Built from Gil's own designs, the house featured his inventive amenities such as a food processor built into the kitchen countertop and an elevator for their later years.

In 1999, the Hess' discussed plans for their estate with Humboldt Area Foundation and made an initial contribution which provided the spark that led to the creation of the Wild Rivers Community Foundation. Gil and Ann were interested in promoting volunteerism in youth and seniors and supporting educational opportunities for youth. As a successful entrepreneur and inventor with limited formal education, Gil felt strongly about supporting those students who may not shine in an academic setting, but share his innovative thinking and entrepreneurial spirit. Therefore, the Gil and Ann Hess Memorial Fund is primarily dedicated to supporting innovation and entrepreneurship in Del Norte students.

Fund advisor, Kevin Hartwick remarked that, "Gil would talk about the fact that entrepreneurs perform differently as students and are inspired by different things. They fit a different set of rules that aren't established and are often bored by traditional teaching methods."

An example offered by Hartwick is, "In metal shop, some students may see a box as a task but an entrepreneur looks at the box and thinks of building a racecar. Gil knew that entrepreneurial students exist because he was one of them. His goal was to find them, include them in a process, fund their work and allow them to be successful. An adjustment to traditional methods of vocational education would be to ask students to make something important. If it is important, they will want to learn how to do the math around it."

The next time you take your suitcase off the airport baggage carousel, imagine what inventions may come from Del Norte students, supported by Gil and Ann Hess' generosity and vision, who were asked to make something important.

Board of Directors

A LETTER FROM THE CHAIR

Dear Friends of Humboldt Area Foundation,

The generosity of the North Coast community is amazing. I'm humbled by the commitment of our friends and neighbors to come together, in support of one another to make our area a better place to live. This happens time and time again.

The dedication and commitment of current and prior Board members, staff, and local citizens volunteering their time and expertise has resulted in a healthy and vibrant Foundation, poised to tackle the tough issues in partnership with our communities. None of this would be possible without you, the donor. This yearbook is in honor of the thousands of donors who have entrusted their resources with the Foundation over the years. From that commitment, I am excited to share that through strong fiscal stewardship, assets of the Foundation surpassed $106 million this year. In addition, over $67 million has been granted since 1972.

As you read through the pages of this yearbook, I'm confident the stories and legacies will be as inspirational to you as they are to me. On behalf of the Board of Directors, I sincerely thank you for your commitment to Humboldt Area Foundation and the trust you place in us to use these valuable resources wisely.

Sincerely,
Jon Sapper

Remembering Marjorie Fitzpatrick 1923-2013

by Jen Rice, Director of Community Strategies

"We lost Margie" was the subject line of the email I sent in February to a large list of former Youth Educational Services (YES) program directors, volunteers and staff who I keep in touch with – still many of my most important friends and life influences. We all loved and revered Marjorie Fitzpatrick.

Before I started classes at HSU, I followed my older sister's lead and signed on to co-direct a program at Youth Educational Services (YES), where we met Margie, who became our "Humboldt Grandma." It didn't take us long to figure out that Margie grew up during the depression in the Mojave Desert ... with our grandma!

As the official "Godmother of YES," Margie helped many practice "service learning" in the community, providing education and adventure opportunities for at-risk and low-income youth. She connected student leaders with community leaders, helped programs and projects raise funds, and, as a former caterer, she fed us – on campus and at festive ranch barbeques or kitchen table counselling sessions.

Jim Ritter was part of an early cohort of YES Directors and another decades-long Marge fan. "I have never known anyone with as much devotion to her community and to service. She was important to so many young adults at YES when we were just finding our voice and place in the world. How I work with people, and the choices that I have made in my career and my life were richly influenced by Marge and the love and caring that she showed to me and others. She was one of my first mentors and stands out as one of the most remarkable people that I have ever known."

Suzi Hendry, Office Manager of YES in the late 80s, kept tabs on Margie and Harold into their final years. "Margie was an inspiration to me as someone new to fundraising. She taught me how to ask ANYONE directly for what you needed. I remember her tireless efforts to put the YES Cookbook together to benefit students who gave so much back to the community. She felt that this would be a legacy for all YES volunteers to be able to participate as directors of programs without financial hardships. And the good news is she was so right. Margie continued to mentor many YES directors to follow their passions after graduation. She will always remind me that young and old can work together to achieve so much."

As a current Humboldt Area Foundation staff member, I hope I'm living up to Margie's legacy. I am honored to have had her influence and her love in my life.

*Margie served on Humboldt Area Foundation's Board of Directors from 1983 through 1987. The Marjorie Fitzpatrick Cookbook Scholarship Fund was established in 1985 with the publication of A Taste of Humboldt, a cookbook offering local ethnic diversity and historic heritage. Proceeds have created an endowment to provide financial aid to volunteer HSU Youth Education Services student program directors.*
